

Welcome to the third newsletter of Planet Goals Project!

This edition summarises the work carried out since May, including progress on the platform, the handbook, the workshops, and the international webinar held in October.

WHAT HAVE WE ACHIEVED

Over the past months, partners worked on several key elements of the project. The platform moved closer to its testing phase, with translation work progressing well and the technical environment refined for partner use.

The handbook materials, including the SDG modules and country reports, reached their final version after internal and external evaluation rounds, followed by translation and visual adjustments.

Workshop content also advanced. The activities designed earlier in the year were reviewed and strengthened.

INTERNATIONAL WEBINAR

On October 24, Novareckon hosted a webinar available on the project's YouTube page, gathering educators, students, and partners.

The event addressed ways to integrate the 17 SDGs into VET teaching and reflected on the role of sustainability, digital tools, and responsible learning environments in vocational education. The session strengthened the project's outreach and supported ongoing dissemination efforts across Europe.

WHAT ARE THE NEXT STEPS

The current focus is on translation and preparation for the piloting phase, planned for 2026, as well as the upcoming meeting in Valencia, where partners will shape the final structure for national use.
